Historical Context

The roots of the Chicano movement can be traced back to the profound social and economic disparities experienced by Mexican Americans throughout U.S. history. Following the Treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo in 1848, which ended the Mexican-American War, large territories—including present-day California, Arizona, New Mexico, and Texas—became part of the United States. Despite these territorial changes, Mexican Americans faced widespread marginalization, disenfranchisement, and discrimination. During the early 20th century, Mexican Americans endured segregation in education, employment discrimination, and violence, including the notorious violence against Mexican communities such as the 1910 Los Angeles Mexican Revolution. These injustices set the stage for later activism.

These systemic issues created a collective consciousness among Mexican Americans that their rights and identity needed to be actively defended and reclaimed.

The Rise of Political Consciousness

The 20th century saw a gradual awakening among Mexican Americans, especially during the 1940s and 1950s, with the emergence of organizations such as the League of United Latin American Citizens (LULAC) and the Mexican American Political Association (MAPA).
