Traditional genres like the balagtasan (poetry duel), kathang-isip (fiction), and awit and corrido (ballads and epics) laid the groundwork for contemporary storytelling. The 20th century saw the rise of modernist writers such as Jose Garcia Villa, Nick Joaquin, and F. Sionil José, who grappled with issues of identity, colonization, and social justice. These foundational voices set the stage for a vibrant literary scene that would evolve with the changing socio-political landscape, culminating in the dynamic and diverse output of the 21st century.

One of the defining features of 21st-century Philippine literature is its ongoing exploration of postcolonial identity. Writers grapple with the legacy of Spanish and American colonization, questioning how history shapes contemporary Filipino consciousness. Many authors seek to reclaim indigenous culture and languages, challenging the dominance of Western literary standards. Writers like Lualhati Bautista and Merlinda Bobis have infused their narratives with indigenous themes, emphasizing the importance of cultural preservation amidst globalization.

Social Justice and Political Engagement

The Philippines' tumultuous political history continues to inform its literature. Contemporary writers often serve as social critics, addressing issues such as poverty, corruption, human rights abuses, and martial law.
