This article explores the map of Palestine in the early first century CE, examining its territorial boundaries, administrative divisions, cities, and cultural landscape, providing a detailed landscape for scholars, historians, and enthusiasts alike.

Introduction: The Significance of Geographical Context in Biblical History

The geographic setting of Palestine during the early first century CE was marked by a mosaic of political entities, diverse populations, and religious communities. The physical terrain influenced settlement patterns, economic activities, and cultural interactions, shaping the lives of those living during the time of Jesus. Mapping this region allows for a more nuanced understanding of biblical narratives, making it possible to visualize events and movements within their real-world settings.

Historical Background and Political Divisions

During the early first century, Palestine was under Roman rule, yet it was divided into several distinct regions, each with its own administrative and cultural characteristics. These divisions reflected historical boundaries, local governance, and socio-political identities.

Roman Provinces and Client Kingdoms

The region was primarily organized into:

- Judea: The southernmost province, centered around Jerusalem, governed directly by Roman procurators. It was a hotbed of religious activity and unrest.
- Samaria: Located between Judea and Galilee, inhabited predominantly by Samaritans, with a complex relationship with neighboring communities.
- Galilee: A fertile, northern region with a mix of Jewish and Gentile populations, where Jesus spent much of his ministry.
- Perea: An eastern territory east of the Jordan River, often associated with Herodian control, considered a peripheral area at the time.
- Idumea: To the south of Judea, inhabited by Edomites, integrated into the Roman provincial system.

Additionally, the Herodian client kingdoms, such as the Kingdom of Herod the Great and his successors, played significant roles in regional governance.

Key Political Figures and Their Territories

- Herod the Great (reigned 37–4 BCE): King of Judea, known for extensive building projects, including the expansion of the Second Temple.
- Herod Antipas: Ruler of Galilee and Perea (4 BCE – 39 CE), contemporary of Jesus, involved in various political and religious controversies.
- Pontius Pilate: Roman prefect (26–36 CE), responsible for Judea during Jesus' ministry.

Understanding these political boundaries and figures aids in situating biblical events within their geopolitical framework.
