Before 1980, interstate matches were played, but players were selected based on the state they first played for at the club level, leading to debates about fairness and regional pride. The introduction of the Origin concept allowed players to represent the state where they first played senior rugby league, adding a new level of intensity and genuine rivalry.

This structure provided a more comprehensive contest, giving each team multiple opportunities to assert dominance and build a compelling narrative across the series. Over the years, the series has become a highlight of the Australian sporting calendar, attracting massive crowds and television audiences nationwide.
