Pre-1788: Indigenous Australia Before European Contact

Before European settlers arrived, Aboriginal Australians had inhabited the continent for at least 65,000 years, making it one of the oldest continuous cultures in the world. Their societies were diverse, with over 250 distinct language groups and thousands of unique cultural practices tailored to different environments.

The Arrival of Europeans: 1788 and Its Immediate Impact

On January 26, 1788, the First Fleet arrived at Botany Bay, marking the beginning of British colonization. This event is often considered the start of a tumultuous and transformative period for Aboriginal Australians.

Initial Encounters and Consequences

Early Policies and Responses

- The establishment of penal colonies and military outposts. - Aboriginal resistance took various forms, including guerrilla warfare and diplomatic negotiations. - The beginning of policies aimed at marginalizing Aboriginal peoples, such as forced removals and the suppression of cultural practices.

19th Century: Colonization, Displacement, and Resistance

The 19th century saw rapid expansion of European settlement across Australia, further impacting Aboriginal communities.

Key Developments

1. Land Dispossession: The implementation of terra nullius doctrine declared the land "empty," justifying colonization without treaties or compensation.
2. Protection Policies: Governments established missions and reserves, often aiming to assimilate or control Aboriginal populations.
3. Frontier Violence: Conflicts between settlers and Aboriginal groups led to massacres and violent resistance.
4. Cultural Suppression: Banning of languages, ceremonies, and traditional practices.
